

Marney Collins Sims is the general counsel for the Cypress-Fairbanks Independent School District, the third largest school district in the state of Texas with over 15,000 employees and 115,000 students. Ms. Sims has served in this role since 2005. Prior to becoming the general counsel in CFISD, Ms. Sims was an associate in the School and Public Law Section of Bracewell, LLP, where she practiced from 1998 to 2005. As general counsel, she advises school district personnel and the board of trustees regarding various matters, including open government laws, employment and disability laws, constitutional rights of students and employees, real estate acquisition and related development of real property, construction matters, procurement and contracting. She currently serves as the Treasurer for the School Law Section of the State Bar of Texas. Ms. Sims graduated summa cum laude from the University of Houston Law Center, where she served as the senior articles editor on the Houston Law Review and a judicial intern for the Honorable Harold R. DeMoss, United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.